The Rural Resilience Program (RRP) surveyed stakeholders across NSW to gain feedback on their experiences working with the program, consider areas for improvements and identify the impacts the RRP has had on themselves, farming communities and organisations.

53 invitations sent
- 17 Surveys completed online
- 13 Surveys conducted over the telephone

Response Rate – 56.6%

How likely are stakeholders to recommend the RRP to their colleagues?

64% Highly Likely
56% Net Promoter Score
“The RRP understands what is happening in rural NSW and have very practical solutions and ideas.”

What worked really well

Collaboration and partnerships 53.3%
Sharing resources, ideas and funding 43.3%
Local knowledge 23.3%
Staff 23.3%

What could be improved

“Better promotion – we didn’t know the program existed.”

Promotion and awareness 40%
Funding continuity 20%
Partnership opportunities 20%
Planning 15%

What impact has the RRP had on stakeholders and farming communities

“As an individual in the bush I have felt very well supported by the activities organised.”

Liane Corocher (co-ordinator)
liane.corocher@dpi.nsw.gov.au
T. 0427 188 643